

Consortium on Asian American Mental Health Training Presents:

Asian American Mental Health: Past, Present, and Future

A training conference for all clinicians, Asian and non-Asian:

This year marks the 20th annual Asian American Mental Health Training Conference. The purpose of this year's training is to reflect on significant mental health issues and address future needs facing Asian Americans. This training provides an opportunity for mental health professionals, students/trainees, consumers and their family members to converge on future directions to advance the treatment of mental health problems encountered today. As a result of this training, participants will better understand issues relevant to the Asian American community as well as become more confident in applying culturally appropriate treatment strategies. Particular emphasis will be placed on school violence, addiction, and family intergenerational conflicts.

No pre-requisite is required. Each participant requesting CME/CE credits is required to fill out a program evaluation form.

Keh-Ming Lin, MD, MPH, is a Professor Emeritus of Psychiatry, UCLA, and Distinguished Life Fellow, American Psychiatric Association. Dr. Lin obtained his medical degree from National Taiwan University, and a Masters in Public Health from the University of Washington where he also completed his residency training. He has specialized in cultural psychiatry and psychopharmacology in his entire professional career with over 260 publications. Among his numerous achievements, he was the Founding Director for both Coastal Asian Pacific Mental Health Center, 1984-1986, and Long Beach Asian Pacific Mental Health Center, 1986. Then he was Founder and Director of the NIMH/Harbor-UCLA Research Center on the Psychobiology of Ethnicity from 1990 to 2004. Also from 2004 to 2009, he was Director, Division of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Research, National Health Research Institutes (NHRI) in Taiwan, and President, Taiwanese Society of Biological Psychiatry and Neuropsychopharmacology. Dr. Lin has served on review and advisory boards in the United States for WHO, NIMH, NIH, FDA, as well as research, academic and policy institutions in Taiwan and Hong Kong. Throughout his career, he has been recognized for his many contributions, including being the recipient of the American Psychiatric Association's Kung-Po Soo Asian American Award. He is currently engaged in private practice, and writes on the interface between mental health and history, as well as historical novels with mental health perspectives.

Francis G. Lu, MD, is the Luke & Grace Kim Professor in Cultural Psychiatry, Emeritus, and Assistant Dean for Faculty Diversity, Emeritus, at the School of Medicine at the University of California, Davis. He received his medical degree from Dartmouth Medical School and completed his psychiatry residency training at the Mount Sinai Hospital and Medical School in New York, NY. Prior to joining the faculty at UC, Davis, Dr. Lu was a Professor of Clinical Psychiatry at UC, San Francisco and an Attending Physician in the Department of Psychiatry at San Francisco General Hospital for 32 years. As a Distinguished Life Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association, Dr. Lu has contributed to the areas of cultural psychiatry, psychiatric education, media and psychiatry, and the interface of psychiatry and religion/spirituality through his presentations and more than 90 publications. For his decades specializing in Asian American mental health, Dr. Lu was honored in 2008 with the American Psychiatric Foundation Advancing Minority Mental Health Award. He also is a recipient of the Association for Academic Psychiatry's Lifetime Achievement Award. Since 1990, he has co-led 27 film seminars at Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA, described at www.gratefulness.org (then search for "films").

Jeffrey R. Cugno, MS is a Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Special Agent (SA). He is a Coordinator with the FBI's Primary National Center for the Analysis of Violent Crime (NCAVC). The mission of the NCAVC is to provide Criminal Investigative Analysis of violent, sexual and serial crimes as a resource available to law enforcement agencies worldwide. SA Cugno holds a Master of Science Degree in Justice and he joined the FBI in 2000 in the Los Angeles Field Office's Cyber Crime Squad and also as a Team Leader for the Evidence Response Team (ERT). As a Cyber Investigator, Special Agent Cugno was responsible for the investigation of threatening communications, child pornography, computer intrusions, and internet fraud. Prior to becoming a Special Agent, he was employed as an FBI Computer Specialist in the Los Angeles Field Office. He also is a Behavioral Assessor on the FBI Crisis Negotiation Team (CNT). Recently, SA Cugno was selected to the FBI's Child Abduction Rapid Deployment Team (CARDT) which responds to non-family child abductions.
